FETE AT THE DRILLSHED

Mother Goose Fair
Was a Great Success.

"Mother Goose" characters filled the Drills shed almost to overflowing on Saturday afternoon, when the Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's Second Congregation gave their fete, based on the quaint conceits found in "Mother Goose" melodies. It was a pretty event and decidedly an innovation in public amusements. The costumes were minutely carried out, and the pretty matrons and debutantes and little children were attractive money makers—for sweet charity's sake. Music, gay awnings, plenty of color in the quaint make of the interior of the Drills shed a happy fairyland, and as an indication of its popularity as a center of attraction for the afternoon, and the deft manner in which visitors were made to part with their money, the receipts amounted to about $500 in round numbers. Of course there are expenses to be deducted from this sum, but even then there will be a profit worth all the hard work to which the ladies were put.

At the entrance to the armory was a pretty marquee, the striped awning harmonizing with the pot of palms and ferns grouped beneath. Before this sat the King in his Counting-House, taking in the tickets. To the right was a beautiful booth for the sale of flowers, the matrons and debutantes offering them for sale vying in loveliness with their fragrant blossoms. The ladies were in white and all wore white gowns and pretty picture hats of white with pink and red flowers, with the exception of Miss Giffard, who wore red. The ladies at this table were Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Miss May Damon, Miss Giffard, Miss Juliet King, Miss Lucy Roth. In the opposite corner to the left of the entrance was the candy booth provided with home-made candies in pretty paper bags. This was attended to by Mrs. Charles B. Cooper, Miss Maude Gillette, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. Fred Church, Mrs. Gardner Wilder, Miss Lillian Bacon.

The fancy table was not a table at all, but a clothesline, on which were hung many pretty pieces for sale, including Hawaiian tapes and curios. At this table were Mrs. Melanphy, Mrs. Dr. Camp, Mrs. Du Roi, Mrs. John Edinger. Across the way was the ice cream and cake booth, where guests were looked after by Mrs. E. Kopke, Mrs. F. M. Auerbach, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. E. W. Jordan, Mrs. Charles T. Day, the Misses Kopke, Miss Rodgers, Misses Greenwell, Taylor and Robinson.

At the end of the hall were the Fortune Teller and Queen of Hearts' booths, in which were Mrs. May Mott-Smith and Miss Irmgard Schaefer, respectively. In the center of the hall was the cool looking lemonade stand under a big Japanese umbrella, presided over by Mrs. and Miss Green. The tea booth was under a striped awning, where delicious brew was served by pretty girls. Those in the booth were Mrs. J. C. Evans, Mrs. Walbridge, Miss Parke, Miss Soper, Miss Irene Dickson. In a side room Mrs. C. L. Crabbe, Mrs. Mary Gunn and Miss Von Holt, with the Fiddlers Three of Old King Cole, held sway, and presided over a pretty minuet performed by eight little girls of Mrs. Gunn's classes. A cakewalk was also one of the attractions.

D. Howard Hitchcock made a hit as Tom, Tom the Pipe's Son, selling pies and cakes; the Lost Sheep were represented by Mrs. E. G. Keen; Simple Simon, Mr. J. Greenwell; Mother Goose, Mrs. C. S. Crane; Old King Cole, D. W. Anderson; Fiddlers Three, Messrs. Wall, Love and Marx; Mother Hubbard, Miss Von Holt; Polly Put the Kettle On, Mrs. J. C. Evans; Little Jack Horner, Ted Melanphy; Maid in the Garden, Mrs. Melanphy; King in His Counting Room, W. R. Castle Jr.; Queen Eating Bread and Honey, Miss Maude Gillette; Jack and Jill, Master and Miss Davidson; Little Bo-Peep, Miss Alice Rycroft; Little Miss Muffet, Miss Gladys Rycroft.

The handsome panel, representing Mother Goose in burnt outlines, was raffled off, number thirty-three winning the prize. The holder of the number has so far failed to put in an appearance. Mr. C. M. Cooke acted as the auctioneer for the sale of the pretty picture hats of the ladies of the flower table, and the bidding was spirited. The highest sum paid was $1.75. The ladies wish to thank the Hawaiian band for its services in playing from 3 to 5 o'clock, and also Nelson & Cashman for the use of the pretty awnings for the marquees.

SIXTO LOPEZ BEING WATCHED

His Honolulu Talks Make Him
an Object of Suspicion.

The Manila Times says: Though perhaps unknown to himself, yet Sixto Lopez, the Filipino Agitator, is constantly under the watchful eye of the United States government. Wherever he goes, an agent follows him even to his shadow, and all that he does, and principally what he says, is conned, noted and referred to Washington.

This step has been deemed advisable on the part of the United States government, owing to the incendiary utterances which Lopez has been scattering broadcast wherever he has gone. With no means to prevent the would-be Filipino leader from going to his home, the attention of the authorities has been aroused as to how to keep him from being dangerous when he reaches here. Major W. W. Robinson Jr., the depot quartermaster in Honolulu, decided that when Lopez was there the authorities should be kept informed of the utterances of the revolutionist, and so the mail carried full details of an interview with Lopez and answers to questions submitted, which have appeared in the Honolulu papers. The letters were sent to Gen. B. M. Young, commanding the Department of California, for the reason that from San Francisco the wires touch all parts of the world. Copies of the letters were also sent to General Chaffee.
